Terry Smith Named 1979 Governor Of State Youth Assembly

Terry Smith, a junior at Murray High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, Benton Road, Murray, was elected Governor of the 1979 Kentucky Youth Assembly at the recent assembly held at the Galt House in Louisville and at the Capitol in Frankfort.

Nineteen Murray High students attended the mock legislative convention which is sponsored annually by the state YMCA. The Murray delegates, representing the Murray High Hi-Y and Tri-Alpha clubs, included Dean Hainsworth, Luis Garrastasi, and Joe Harman, sophomores; Karen Bailey, Duane Dycus, Reed Hainsworth, Gena Lovett, Dana Mansfield, Francie Outland, and Terry Smith, juniors; Lisa English, Delaine Honchul, Delores Honchul, Bruce Horning, Marilyn Howard, Gina Jones, Laura Shinnors, Dana Shipley, and Shara Toon, seniors. Accompanying the students were Lloyd Hasty and Mary Ann Russell, club sponsors, and Richard Smith, father of the newly-elected governor.

Serving on the 1978 KYA cabinet were Bruce Horning, committee chairman;

Terry Smith; Delores Honchul, senate majority leader; and Laura Shinnors, senate bill clerk. Two bills authored by the Tri-Alphas passed both House and Senate and were signed into KYA law. One created a committee to review the state constitution for the purpose of recommending revisions. The second bill prohibited the sale of beverages in non-deposit glass containers. A bill authored by the Hi-Y to appropriate funds for state mental health facilities was passed by the assembly but vetoed by the governor.

Highlights of the three-day meeting included a cruise and dance on the Belle of Louisville, the Governor's banquet, and the final awards ceremony at which time Terry Smith was announced Governor of next year's assembly. This is the first time in the history of the thirty-three year old assembly that a governor has been elected from Western Kentucky - Purchase area delegates. Another honor was afforded the local group when Delores Honchul was presented an award for outstanding cabinet member.

Design Of Clothes Can Help Teach Children

The way clothes are made goes a long way toward teaching a child to dress himself, according to an Extension home economist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"A two-year-old child begins to show independence by wanting to dress without help," says clothing specialist Bette Jo Dedie. "At three, youngsters probably will want clothes they can get into and out of by themselves. But the age at which children can handle their own clothes depends on the individual, the training the child receives and the way clothes are made."

The specialist lists a number of qualities mothers should look for in buying clothes for children in this age group. Among them are:

Front openings, with big buttons, buttonholes and zippers — but as few as possible. When placed where the child can see them they are easier to handle. Learning is easier if fastenings are of the same type and in the same place, according to Ms. Dedie. Easy-to-tell fronts and backs.

Necklines large or stretchy enough to slip easily over the child's head.

Suspenders fastened with large buttons. Elastic or stretch waist bands in pants or skirts. The specialist notes that boxer shorts are easy for little children to pull on and off.

Pockets easy to reach and big enough to use.

Knits and stretch materials that "give."

Legal Rights Given At Visits To Your Doctor

Don't surrender your legal rights at the doctor's office, hospital or nursing home. "You have the legal right of control over your own body, and you have the right to be fully informed about any suggested treatment," says Helen Stevens, a family economics specialist with the UK College of Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service.

You have the right to a full explanation of the results of any tests or exploratory surgery.

If you ask him to do so, your doctor is required to explain the procedure, risks and possible consequences of any treatment or lack of treatment in "plain words" that you can really understand.

You have the right to refuse to see tests, or to cut their visits short. In other words, you have a right to privacy.

You have the right to wear your own nightclothes and jewelry if you want to, unless it interferes with treatment. You have a right to adequate treatment. If you feel you haven't received it, talk it over with your doctor or hospital staff as a first step.

You have a right to private medical records, available only to you and your doctor unless you give your consent otherwise. You have the right to confidentiality from both your doctor and hospital.

"In other words," says Stevens, "you're still a person, still a citizen, even when you're a patient. If you become seriously ill and are no longer able to insist on your legal rights, a close friend or relative should be aware of them so as to protect your interest."

For more information, you can write for a free copy of "A Patient's Bill of Rights." Order it from: American Hospital Association, 840 North Lakeshore Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

State Rep. McNutt Speaks At League Meet On Monday

Mrs. Dolly McNutt, State Representative in the Kentucky Legislature, reviewed the past session on women's issues to members of the League of Women Voters Monday evening at the North Branch of Peoples Bank.

The former mayor of Paducah reminded her audience that all decisions affecting government apply to women. In the 447 pieces of legislation enacted, all involved women as well as men.

Mrs. McNutt specifically spoke of the fact that Kentucky was the 10th state to issue a call for a Constitutional Convention for the human life amendment.

She mentioned that the legislature created the Cancer Commission, a cabinet level energy department, a division of tourism in the Department of Commerce and a Crisis Assistance aid which involves a 90 day assistance for those in temporary need.

Mrs. McNutt said she thought the education legislation was very successful and good. She hoped for an improvement in the true democratic process with open and free debate and decision.

She also spoke on the fact that in 1920 equal rights was first introduced. She reminded her audience that every president since Eisenhower, as well as both Democratic and Republican platforms, had contained Equal Rights principles.

The public was welcomed to this informative meeting, according to Ruth Howard, president, who presided. Mrs. Crit Lowry introduced Mrs. McNutt.

Observations

By Lochie Hart

Don McCord's Findings Reveal Personal Attacks In Meeting Of First Christian Church In 1860

Since the last week's publication of the beginnings of the First Christian Church history as found by Don McCord, in the church minutes, I have had calls concerning some interesting items concerning the church.

Mrs. Humphrey Key, (Ethel Crawford) told me that her grandfather, F. N. Crawford of the Lynn Grove community, was a charter member of the local Christian Church, according to her family history. She said he rode horseback to church in Murray, but his wife took the children by wagon to the Methodist church at Goshen. "That's why all the Crawfords are Methodists," she said.

Mrs. Harry Erwin (Myrtle Johnston Wall) called to tell me that her grandmother and a charter member of the Christian church was Sarah A. Ryan.

The Disturbance In The Sunday Service

The following is taken from The August 1860 church minutes:

At the meeting on Saturday before the 1st Lord's Day in August Brother Wm. Dugger being by appointment expected and failing to come, the hour having fully arrived for preaching to commence, one of the brothers and another elder proposed that a certain elder be invited to preach. This elder said, "You know I cannot invite this man to preach as there is an unsettled matter of difference between us." Then the elder was invited to preach anyway. He agreed to preach provided he be allowed to take an expression of the congregation whether or not they wished him to preach.

"I, (the church clerk) agreed, thinking he would put the question in order. When I resumed my seat, the opposing elder asked me if the invited elder consented to preach. I told him he did, and then he remarked that he thought he had better absent himself from the house. I remarked that I would vouch for the brother that he would not mention or hint of the difficulty, whereupon the brother consented to stay.

"The invited brother took the stand and after prayer, proceeded to make some remarks relative to the condition in which he was placed. . . and became quite personal. . . Then began his remarks by saying, 'Now if there is a sister or brother in the congregation that objects to my preaching in this house, they will make it known by holding up their hand.' Then the offended brother alone, held up his hand. Then the brother in the pulpit motioned his hand at the lone objector and in quite harsh tone remarked, 'That's nothing more than I expected of you, Sir.'

"The objector rose and asked to make a remark or two. The presiding elder then gathered up his books and left the stand. The protesting elder proceeded to give a brief history of what the supposed to be grounds of the brother's hostility toward him was. He affirmed that he had not in the conversation, intended an insult to the offended brother, but had attempted by a private conversation with him to heal an old breach, labouring for the general good.

"A committee was asked for to investigate and report. Whereupon Brethren Wm. Cutchen, R. J. Martin and James McKnight were appointed to summon witnesses and adjudicate the case and report the results of their deliberations.

"At the next meeting the 1st of September, the committee above named reported that from all evidence that could be had, they concluded the motives and conduct of the offended elder was not such as to found an accusation upon. Whereupon the committee was discharged and the congregation gave their Amen to the decision."

Mildred Ann Woods, Member Of Graduating Class 1978

Mildred Ann Woods, daughter of Mrs. Eva Woods of Murray Route Eight, is a member of the graduating class at the Kentucky School for the Deaf in Danville. The 155th commencement exercises are scheduled for Friday, June 2, at two p.m. in the Thomas Physical Education Complex on the Danville campus.

Miss Woods has attended the school at Danville since September 1968. She attended the Detroit Day School for 2½ years and a special education class at Harmon School.

The Kentucky School for the Deaf is a part of the public school system of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and was founded in 1823, as the first state supported school for the deaf in the United States.

Located on a picturesque 175-acre campus near the heart of historic Danville, Boyle County, Kentucky, this residential school is dedicated to providing a quality education to Kentucky's deaf children, 6 to 21 years of age. Deaf children who reside in (or in close proximity to) Danville attend classes as day students.

The school is divided into five academic departments: Lower (primary); Middle (elementary); Upper (junior and senior high school); Vocational; and Physical Education.

In addition to the excellent facilities in Danville, pre-school satellite programs are based classes and services for hearing impaired children under 6 years of age and their families.

The high school academic program leads to a diploma accredited by the State Department of Education. Students are prepared for employment, post-secondary vocational-technical or college education.

Extra-curricular activities afford the students an opportunity to participate in service clubs and organizations where they gain understanding and training in citizenship, leadership and use of leisure time. Teamwork and sportsmanship are stressed in football, basketball, track and swimming competition with other schools in the area as well as other schools for the deaf.

The Child Study Center on campus provides a parent-child program of evaluation and support services. A team of specialists include a parent education director, audiologist, social worker, counselor-psychometrist and infirmary staff.

The horizons of the school are ever expanding and new services envisioned. Future development of a multi-handicapped facility, apartment-type high school dormitories, a new middle school, and expansions of the vocational and physical education building will soon be a reality.

Forestry Officials Say Three Insects Pose Danger To Trees

FRANKFORT — It's that time of year again when trees are beginning to turn nice and green, but unfortunately all that nice greenery is what caterpillars thrive on.

According to officials in the state Division of Forestry, Kentuckians should particularly beware of three defoliating insects: the Virginia pine sawfly, the Arkansas pine sawfly and the Eastern tent caterpillar.

Probably the most abundant pest of the three is the Eastern tent caterpillar which feeds on the foliage of cherry, apple, crabapple and other hardwood trees in most of the Eastern United States.

Forestry officials have estimated that the amount of Eastern tent caterpillars thriving in Kentucky will be slightly higher than in previous years. Silken webs or tents can already be spotted in the branches of host trees throughout the state.

The insect can completely defoliate hardwood trees during April and May, but tree mortality is rare. However, the combination of hundreds of caterpillars, silken tents measuring three or four feet in diameter and naked branches can be unsightly.

Several varieties of caterpillars can cause these "tents." If you have these white tents scattered on your fruit trees but are not sure whether they are Eastern tent caterpillars, these are usually two inches long, hairy and have a white strip down the back bordered by reddish-brown patches and blue spots on the sides.

The Virginia pine sawfly attacks Virginia, Shortleaf, and Pitch Pines in eastern and southcentral Kentucky.

Although the presence of this insect has been detected in those regions, forestry officials estimate that the overall damage will be light this spring.

This insect begins defoliating trees during mid to late April when the larvae is in the caterpillar stage and can strip a tree within two weeks. However, they feed entirely on one-year-old needles and complete their development before the new needles appear. In other words, if these creatures thrive on your pines for one year there is little to worry about. If other conditions are favorable after the insects are grown, the trees can produce enough new foliage to survive.

It is time to worry, however, if the trees have been heavily defoliated for three or more consecutive years because the pines are severely weakened and highly susceptible to attack by other insects and diseases.

If you've seen these green caterpillars with shiny black heads and four gray or black stripes running the length of their bodies for the past three or more years on your pine trees, it could be time to get rid of them once and for all. The characteristics of the Arkansas pine sawfly are very similar to that of the Virginian pine sawfly, but they attack loblolly pines in Western Kentucky during April and May.

Forestry officials estimate that defoliation by this insect will also be light with only a 10 to 20 per cent loss of foliage on loblolly pines expected this year.

Like the Virginia pine sawfly, this caterpillar causes little damage when he thrives on a tree for one season. But loblolly pines that suffer attack for three or more seasons can be susceptible to other insects or diseases.

The insects are light green with reddish-brown heads and dark stripes which run the length of their bodies.

For additional information concerning these insects and how to control them, (or any other tree insect or disease), contact your nearest Kentucky Division of Forestry office.

First Region Band Festival To Be Held At Murray State

Twenty-three bands from high schools, junior high schools, and middle schools in West Kentucky will be on the campus of Murray State University Friday and Saturday, April 28-29, for the First Region Band Festival.

Richard W. Farrell, Murray State professor emeritus and festival manager, said the program in Lovett Auditorium will begin at 4 p. m. on Friday and at 8 a. m. on Saturday. He added that the public is invited to attend at no admission charge.

Bands will be classified according to the difficulty of music selected for the program sponsored by the Kentucky Music Educators Association (KMEA) and the Department of Music at Murray State.

A panel of three judges, all music educators, will criticize and evaluate performances for ratings. They are: Dr. Howard Nicer, George Peabody College in Nashville; James Stuppy, director of bands at Columbia, Tenn.; and Larry Moore, director of bands at Lafayette High School in Lexington.

Each band will perform at least two selections and be judged superior, excellent, good, fair, or poor. Bands rated superior or excellent will be awarded a plaque, while bands rated superior will be eligible to receive a trophy.

Bands and their directors performing on Friday will appear in the following order: Mayfield Middle, David Tucker; North Marshall Junior High, Jackie Wayland; Trigg County Middle, Marsha Rudolph; Caldwell County Junior High, Randy Heidlebaugh; Jetton Junior High, Sarah Lynn; Heath Middle, James Hobby; Lone Oak Middle, Robert Singletary; Reidland Middle, Nancy Page; Livingston

Central High School, Larry Dawes; Lyon County High School, Robert Kratz; Murray High Concert Band, Frank Schwab; and Providence High School, Keith Sperry.

One-Arm Player Subject Of Chapter In New Book

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — When

historians speak of baseball's mountaintop performances, they zero in on the 755 career home runs of Hank Aaron, Cy Young's 511 pitching victories, Joe DiMaggio's 56-game hitting streak and Lou Gehrig's unbroken string of 2,130 consecutive games.

Yet hidden in the dusty archives lies in what in our opinion is the most fantastic phenomenon the game has known — the one-armed outfielder who made the major leagues.

The dramatic story of Pete Gray is resurrected in William B. Mead's lively book on "the zany, true story of baseball in the Early Forties," the World War II years, entitled "Even the Browns."

Nearly a full chapter is devoted to the gritty, determined Gray, and it brought back memories of the handicapped athlete's struggle in the minors before he graduated to the remarkable, pennant-winning St. Louis Browns.

Gray, whose real name was Peter J. Wyshner, was born in Nanticoke, Pa., a grim, scruffy coal-mining town near Wilkes-Barre. Pete's father was a miner of Lithuanian descent who changed the family name to "Gray."

We are indebted to author Mead for these early details of the ball player's life.

When he was six years old, Pete Gray hopped a farmer's provision wagon, fell off and caught his right arm in the spokes. The arm was mangled and had to be amputated above the elbow.

Gray was intent on playing professional baseball. Although right-handed, he learned to bat from the left side. While his right sleeve dangled empty and useless, his left arm grew in strength. He had a superb batting eye. Lean and quick, he mixed line drives with well-executed bunts, mostly down the third base line. He dragged others past the pitcher.

With keen eyesight and a powerful left arm, he also managed to hit for distance. He rapped out doubles, triples and even home runs.

An even greater miracle, however, was Gray's ability to field. He removed almost all the padding from his glove and wore it on his fingertips, with his little finger exposed. He would catch the ball, quickly stick the glove under the stump of his right arm, draw the ball clear with his left hand and throw it to the infield.

He hardly lost a second. Spurned by organized baseball, Gray played semi-pro ball with Three Rivers, Quebec, and the Brooklyn Bushwicks before he finally caught the eye of Toronto of the Class AA International League, which cut him, and then the Memphis Chicks of the Class A Southern Association.

It was at Memphis that Gray began receiving nationwide publicity. In 1944 he batted .333, stole 63 bases and was voted the league's Most Valuable Player. In two seasons, he struck out only 15 times. The War Department made movies of his play to be shown wounded soldiers in army hospitals.

The Browns, 1944 American League champions, bought Gray for $20,000. The one-armed outfielder, swinging a 35-ounce bat, had his dramatic moments in 1945 but wound up batting .218 with six doubles and two triples, mostly as a pinch hitter.

An even greater miracle, however, was Gray's ability to field. He removed almost all the padding from his glove and wore it on his fingertips, with his little finger exposed. He would catch the ball, quickly stick the glove under the stump of his right arm, draw the ball clear with his left hand and throw it to the infield.

He hardly lost a second. Spurned by organized baseball, Gray played semi-pro ball with Three Rivers, Quebec, and the Brooklyn Bushwicks before he finally caught the eye of Toronto of the Class AA International League, which cut him, and then the Memphis Chicks of the Class A Southern Association.

It was at Memphis that Gray began receiving nationwide publicity. In 1944 he batted .333, stole 63 bases and was voted the league's Most Valuable Player. In two seasons, he struck out only 15 times. The War Department made movies of his play to be shown wounded soldiers in army hospitals.

The Browns, 1944 American League champions, bought Gray for $20,000. The one-armed outfielder, swinging a 35-ounce bat, had his dramatic moments in 1945 but wound up batting .218 with six doubles and two triples, mostly as a pinch hitter.

Gray was intent on playing professional baseball. Although right-handed, he learned to bat from the left side. While his right sleeve

dangled empty and useless, his left arm grew in strength. He had a superb batting eye. Lean and quick, he mixed line drives with well-executed bunts, mostly down the third base line. He dragged others past the pitcher.

With keen eyesight and a powerful left arm, he also managed to hit for distance. He rapped out doubles, triples and even home runs.

Bill Taylor Brings Campaign Against Huddleston To Murray

By LOWELL ATCHLEY
Staff Reporter

Ask most people who's running against Kentucky Senator Walter "Dee" Huddleston for the Democratic nomination and you're apt to draw a blank.

One of Huddleston's opponents for the May 23 Primary nomination William "Bill" Taylor High Bridge in Jassamine County says he knows he's waging an uphill battle against the first term Senator.

But, Taylor, in Murray Tuesday on a swing through Western Kentucky, is optimistic, full of drive, and claims that even if Huddleston wins in May, he won't make it back to Washington for a repeat term because a GOP nominee will be elected in November.

Taylor, 61, a one-time teacher, flight instructor, logger, coal miner, and current construction company operator, is beating his drum loudest on Huddleston's Panama Canal stand. "There are two things that I strongly oppose. One is his giving away of the Panama Canal... another is, one of the first things that he did when he went to Washington, was vote himself a $13,000 raise," Taylor said.

Taylor also declares "the nation is going broke." He said, "We just can't go on like this, we're floating too much artificial money. Taylor also called for a strong four to six year ceiling on wages and prices, a move he says "is one thing I don't know why our government won't try."

The Jassamine County Democrat also calls for electing the president by popular vote, "giving jobs to the needy, instead of handouts," "bussing for equal education — Yes... bussing just to mix colors — No," protection of a citizen's right to bear arms, a popular vote on taxes and realistic profits for farmers.

Taylor promises full support of the tobacco program and says he plans to conduct a strong fight to protect the interests of tobacco farmers. Huddleston supports tobacco interests in the state also.

Taylor is waging his border to border campaign in a madshift van with all the details of his candidacy written on the side.

He is asking for support from everyone who agrees with the way he thinks about government. He says he's taking donations of $100 or less from supporters and feels that groups ought to limit their gifts to no more than $1,000. "I don't want to be obligated to special interests when I go to Washington," he said.

Taylor claims that Lexington Democrat Jack Watson entered the race for the Democratic nomination to drain votes that would go to the Taylor camp. "He didn't even start campaigning until April 15," Taylor said. "It was a dark future when I entered the race eight weeks ago, but I think I've got a good chance now provided the Democrats don't split the vote," Taylor said.

The current campaign is the first for Taylor. Besides Watson and Huddleston, Taylor faces George W. Tolhurst of Louisville for the nomination.

Republicans seeking the GOP Senate nomination include Oline Carmichael Jr. of Williamsburg, Louis Geunthner Jr. of Northfield and Thurman Jerome Hamlin, London.

Computer Rejects College Grant Applications

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than one-fourth of the first students applying for federal grants to cover college costs this year are being rejected by a computer programmed to catch cheating.

The new computer check for inconsistencies or omissions has resulted in turning back more than 200,000 of the first 800,000 applicants for so-called basic educational opportunity grants, according to Leo Kornfeld, who is HEW's student aid director.

Kornfeld called the figures "amazing."

The rejected students are given a chance to submit corrected applications, he said in an interview, but these will be submitted to extra scrutiny.

By a "conservative" estimate, Kornfeld said, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been paying out $100 million to $150 million annually to students who were ineligible for the grants or who got too much.

The bulk of the money goes to students who underestimated their families' income, he says.

Now, if the information on the application about a family's income doesn't square with the amount of income taxes paid, the computer kicks it out. It then rejects any application containing information that appears hard to reconcile.

Kornfeld said information is still being gathered on what types of mistakes the students are making. It is possible that some are honest mistakes and that the application form "is more formidable than we think," he said.

In those cases, students will need more help from their counselors or financial aid officers in filling out the form, he said.

But Kornfeld believes computer rejections will weed out mostly students who don't deserve an award at all.

Kornfeld said HEW began "computer auditing" the applications because "too many kids were submitting corrected applications to get a higher grant."

Out of 4.5 million students who applied for the grants in 1977, nearly two million divided $1.7 billion in federal aid. The average award was $850 and the maximum was $1,400. Ninety percent of the recipients came from families with adjusted income of less than $14,000.

The grants for the current year range up $1,600. President Carter has proposed raising the ceiling to $1,800 next year and adding $1 billion to the program to make grants of $250 available to students from families with income up to $25,000.

Carter is pushing for expansion of this program as an alternative to tax credits for college tuition, a proposal Carter opposes as inflationary but which has substantial support in Congress.

Kornfeld said that as an added precaution, his office will audit 10 percent of the applications from students who appear eligible for grants, concentrating on those who submitted corrected applications. They will be asked to provide additional information, such as a copy of their parents' income tax return.

Is Downs Vulnerable To Corporate Takeover?

CINCINNATI (AP) — There is universal agreement on one point: the Kentucky Derby needs to be protected and preserved.

The question is whether Churchill Downs in Louisville is vulnerable to a corporate takeover.

Legislation passed by the Kentucky General Assembly would authorize creation of an independent authority to purchase and operate the world-famous home of the Derby.

Those opposed in the move say race tracks everywhere are too political. They believe Churchill Downs could become a toy for the governor.

Some say Gov. Julian

Carroll viewed the legislation second only to his own budget as important current legislation. It's estimated the authority would pay $16 million for the Downs. The track's pre-tax earnings usually are almost $3.5 million.

There is a way this change of ownership could be stopped.

A majority of the 13-member track board of directors could vote it down when the board meets Saturday.

One informal poll reveals seven directors who could be contacted are against the bill as it stands, two are in favor and two undecided. The bill needs restructuring, say the off-the-record opponents.

The bill authorizes a public agency to issue and sell bonds to raise the funds to buy Churchill Downs stock as it becomes available. The measure does not require current stockholders to sell their shares, but only sets up a way for doing so if they choose.

Politicians wanted to keep ownership of the track from falling into the hands of out-of-state owners, feeling they would lack the present ownership's dedication to racing as a sport and the appreciation of the traditions of the Derby.

A University of Tennessee economic study in 1977 shows the Derby adds $74 million annually to the economy of Kentucky.

The Churchill Downs Authority created by the bill would consist of three appointees by the governor to serve until the track's acquisition is completed.

After the Downs is bought by the state, the governor would appoint nine members to the board with at least six knowledgeable about racing and the Louisville track. And three would have to be from Jefferson County, where Louisville is located.

The current owners of the Downs is a group of businessmen-horsemen led by John W. Galbreath of Darby Dan Farm.

The authority concept for control and operation of Churchill has been urged since 1963 by William H. May, chairman of the Kentucky State Racing Commission.

Our Teachers Deserve Praise

A very deserving group is being recognized this week in our community.

"Teacher Appreciation Week," is being observed in local schools. During this week, students and other are expressing their gratitude to those who have devoted their lives to educating our young people.

Teachers traditionally put in many long hours. Their day doesn't begin at 8 a.m. and end at 3 p.m., a misconception held by many not in the field. Most days they arrive at school much earlier and remain later, only to take a armload of papers home with them to work on during the evening hours.

Today's teachers must be more than just lecturers who drone on and on about the day's lesson. They must be able to communicate with their students and be responsive to their needs. Today's teachers must be able to make the students want to learn.

Today's students are smarter than ever before in the past. Much of this can be credited to the fine teachers in our public schools.

We are proud of our local school systems and particularly our teachers. We take this opportunity to add our THANK YOU to those who educate our children.

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: Due to the ever-present rising inflation, I had to move out of the neighborhood in which I had always lived. I am on Social Security and my move was downward to a higher crime area in the city. This scares me tremendously as there seems to be a home broken into almost every night. What can I do to make my home safer? — D.K.

Any home that someone wants to break into enough can be broken into. However, there are many things which can be done to discourage the average thief. The following list of home safety tips was recently published by the Action for Independent Maturity:

1. Have secure locks (preferably dead bolts and pin fall locks).
2. Lock house even when home.
3. Don't leave your keys in "hiding places," such as in your mailbox or under your doormat.
4. Keep an outdoor light on at night.
5. Use automatic timers to regulate lights while you are away.
6. Install a burglar alarm that sets off noise, floodlights, both.
7. Don't keep valuables around the house.
8. If you must have valuables at home, mark them with an electric pencil, available at most police departments.
9. Don't keep handguns at home.
10. Know your neighbors and check up on each other's safety.

HEARTLINE: Can you tell me who is eligible for a vocational rehabilitation benefit from the V.A.? — J.D.

Veterans who served in the armed forces during World War II or thereafter are eligible for vocational rehabilitation if all three of the following conditions are met:

(a) They suffered a service-connected disability in active service which entitled them to compensation, or would do so but for receipt of retirement pay;

(b) They were discharged or released under other than dishonorable conditions and

(c) The VA determines that they need vocational rehabilitation to overcome the handicap of their disabilities. A veteran is eligible for 9 years following discharge or release. An extension may be made under certain conditions.

HEARTLINE: I drew Social Security disability in 1973 and then was able to go back to work. I have recently become disabled again and have been reapplied for Social Security disability. Do I again have to wait five months before drawing? — V.G.

No. If you become disabled a second time within five years after your disabled worker's benefits stopped because you returned to work or recovered, you are not required to again wait five months for your social security disability to begin. Benefits are payable the first full month of disability.

HEARTLINE: I work for the federal government in a job under Civil Service. Can you tell me when an employee can make an additional deposit besides the regular deductions to the retirement fund? — J.B.

Yes. Such deposits, commonly known as voluntary contributions, are made for the express purpose of purchasing additional annuity at the time of retirement. These contributions must be made in multiples of $25 (i.e. $25, $50, $125, $200, etc.) and the total may not exceed 10 per cent of the total basic civilian pay received since Aug. 1, 1920.

Federal Funds For Crime Victims

SENATOR MRS. HUBERT H. HUMPHREY (Minn.) "...Today we are faced with a most disturbing trend in law enforcement. The Federal Government spends almost $8,000 annually to feed, clothe, house and provide medical services, psychiatric care and other services to the incarcerated perpetrator of violent crime. Yet, the plight of the innocent victim has been almost entirely ignored by the Federal Government."

"More than 20 States have recognized the need to compensate victims of violent crime for the economic hardship they suffer..."

"These victim compensation programs only compensate the innocent and only where the victim has been physically injured or has died. The programs do not compensate victims for the loss of stolen property and they do not compensate victims when compensation would result in double recovery..."

"The Government and the courts have made an effort to protect the legitimate civil rights of criminal defendants. Indigent accused are provided with legal counsel and all necessary expertise at the public expense. The accused is also clothed by a full range of constitutional protection. I urge my colleagues to also protect the rights of innocent victims of crime."

"Last year, the Victims of Crime Act of 1977 was introduced in the Senate. This legislation would authorize the Attorney General to make annual grants to qualifying state programs to compensate victims of Federal and State crimes...

"My own State of Minnesota has had an extremely good victims compensation program since 1974. To be eligible for compensation, the victim must immediately report the crime to a law enforcement agency and completely cooperate with that agency..."

"I urge my colleagues to give thorough and thoughtful consideration to the Victims of Crime Act. Passage of this bill would greatly assist States in operating crime victims compensation programs and would be the action of a compassionate Congress."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Those who oppose the Crime Victim Act insist the bloated Federal budget cannot stand further raids on the Treasury. They feel Congressional compassion is admirable, but the price would be too high.

Bible Thought

"And he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS." Revelation 19:16

When the Lord Jesus Christ returns to this earth, the Bible clearly teaches that every person will acknowledge His sovereign right to rule. Why not acknowledge that fact now?

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

Verdict On Carter

SPRINGFIELD, Neb. — Voters of both parties in this farm hamlet have diagnosed what they think ails Jimmy Carter's presidency as follows: incompetence and indecision.

Whether this diagnosis points to terminal political illness, however, is an open question. The President retains a large measure of good will. Thus, although only 16 of our 55 voters rate his presidential performance "good" or "excellent," and 39 say "fair" or "poor," fully one-half say they still have a "favorable" opinion of him as a person.

But the down-to-earth criticism of one retired farmer, a Democrat, hints that time may be running out. "I don't think Carter is big enough for the job." One of 17 Carter voters in our survey of political sentiment here (25 backed Jerry Ford and 13 don't recall or would not say how they voted in 1976), this farmer says he now wishes he had voted for Ford.

Four additional voters who backed the President in 1976 now say they wish they had not, an unusually high defection rate. Only one Ford voter who answered our questionnaire, prepared by Pat Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research, wishes he had voted for Mr. Carter.

On one major issue after another — inflation, farm policy, handling the Soviet Union, defense spending — our scouting expedition produced failing marks for the President on general grounds of incompetence and waffling. The sole exception: his efforts to settle the Arab-Israeli struggle in the Middle East, which gained solid 2-to-1 support.

Behind that praise for Mr. Carter's dealing with the Middle East may lie a lesson for the President: the political importance of follow-through. Ringing doorbells with three Caddell field representatives on a day of rain, snow and frigid winds on the bleak Nebraska prairie, we found high praise for Mr. Carter's consistency in trying to mediate between Arab and Jew. On other issues, he is charged with lacking conviction, receiving less than 50 per cent approval even for "trying" to solve the energy crisis.

The dominant theme was struck by an attractive, 36-year-old waitress. "If the man would just say something and stick to it!" she blurted out. "That would make a difference." She backed Ford in 1976, but only "as the lesser of two evils." A 35-year-old computer maintenance man, whose job is 30 miles east of here in Omaha, agreed. He voted for Mr. Carter and would vote for him again today but called him "too hesitant" on decisions. "There are so many things he said he would do and he hasn't shown that he can do any of them."

By far the major worry here is inflation, along with other economic problems. Thirty-one of our voters listed inflation as the "most important" issue. Indeed, the prevailing lack of confidence in Mr. Carter bodes ill for his new anti-inflation program and might turn Ambassador Robert Strauss's silver hair gray. Only 19 voters "generally approve of the way Mr. Carter is trying to handle" the inflation disease (against 31 who disapprove and 5 who do not know). But the President's new anti-inflation program, using Strauss's virtuoso jawbone as his principal weapon, appears singularly unconvincing in Springfield: only 4 voters think it will work, 22 say it will not work and 29 are dubious.

Neither Springfield nor Nebraska as a whole represents majority opinion in the U.S. This is hawkeye country, built on a farm economy. Thus, by almost 2-to-1, our respondents "generally disapprove" of Mr. Carter's handling of Moscow. On questions whether he is "too tough" or "too weak" on the Soviets, and whether he is spending "too much" or "too little" on defense, an identical 31 voters say "too weak" and "too little."

As for the farm issue, there was some solace for the President in taking a hard-line position against the "emergency" farm bill defeated in the House 10 days ago under threat of presidential veto. A surprising 24 voters commend him for that, against only 27 who condemn him (the balance unsure). That is a far better mark than he gets on his efforts to cope with the farm situation, and serves to highlight the fact that even here the intractable problem of inflation is overtaking farm prices as an issue. That shift can scarcely be called a political plus for a President who still has not proved his fitness to govern, at least as judged in this small farm community.

The Current Buying Mood

NEW YORK (AP) — Those surveys of consumer and business expectations appear oddly at variance with the buying mood now appearing in the stock, housing, automotive and other markets.

Consumer confidence in March fell to a two-year low, said the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan. And financial executives too are said to be less optimistic about the economy.

At the same time, sales of many items rose and money poured into the stock market as suddenly as water from a broken dam, fortunately to be soaked up by stocks that had grown dry as an unused sponge.

The people at the Survey Research Center ordinarily contend that a poor consumer mood almost inevitably is reflected in future sales, but for the time being they are backing off from that position.

People are buying goods, they say, because of fears that future prices will be even higher, a phenomenon that if true means problems for Washington's anti-inflation program.

Anticipatory buying, it has been noted in the past, is both an expression of low confidence in the nation's economic leadership and a self-fulfilling prophecy of more inflation to come.

Executives surveyed in a Conference Board survey also showed less confidence in the ability of the country to restrain inflation. Those questioned look for prices to rise 6.4 percent this year, 6.5 in 1979.

While such increases are far below double-digit range, they represent a marked change from attitudes as recently as last October, when financial executives thought inflation would recede.

Whatever the reasons for the poor mood, it hardly is being reflected in public statements by executives. Executives of the nation's biggest companies are making statements that haven't been heard in a while.

In Denver this week, Frank Cary, chairman of International Business Machines, told annual meeting attendees his company will greatly expand capacity, adding 10,000 manufacturing workers in 1977-1978.

Thomas Murphy, General Motors chairman, has been talking bullish for many months, and automotive sales, after lagging during the harsh winter, are documenting his faith.

And still, the surveys and a good deal of office and plant chatter tend to depict a timid mood at variance with the vigorous reality, as if people have become so used to talking gloom they cannot give it up.

Moods, it appears, are a product of the emotions, while buying is an assessment made by the pocketbook. What we have now is an emotion that says beware, and a pocketbook that says go ahead.

We say that things are bad, but if that is a true assessment of conditions, who is buying all the cars and houses and blue chip stocks, which represent bets placed on current and future economic well-being?

The survey people know their business, but those they survey know theirs too. The puzzling question is why the latter are talking poor and acting as if things were getting better all the time.

Isn't It The Truth

There was a time when we people were satisfied with what the preacher preached, a promise of heaven or hell, depending on behavior. Now, in this permissive age we have the politician, who promises heaven on earth, with help and punishment from the bureaucracy — free this and free that, bolstered by so-called grants. This new kind of religion also depends on behavior — how you cast your vote.

Portrait Presented

A tea was held by the faculty of Robertson Elementary School on Friday afternoon for the presentation of a portrait of Mr. Dennis Taylor who was principal of the school for many years.

Earlier, Robert G. Jeffrey, Superintendent of Murray Schools, had presented the portrait to the students of Robertson at a special assembly. Mrs. Pauline McCoy, teacher at the school, made the arrangements for both events.

MRS. WILLIE FARLESS served refreshments at the reception which was given by the teachers at Robertson.

Kentucky Bases Could Be Closed In Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon hadn't even announced its plans to close or cut back military bases around the country before the complaints began.

"Betrayed," said one congressman whose district would lose an Air Force base. "Irreparable damage," warned a governor.

"Appalled," said a senator. "We are deeply concerned," said two senators.

The comments came Tuesday — a day before the Pentagon was to announce what it wants to do with some military installations scattered around the country, in at least in 20 states.

The objective is to save about $300 million a year by closing some bases, cutting back manpower at others and consolidating training camps and other activities.

As an overall goal, the idea of increasing military efficiency and cutting back on waste isn't very controversial. But when the goals turn to action — as in closing a base in a congressman's district — the problems begin.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., was one of the first to speak out. Seven of the targeted bases reportedly were in California.

Cranston said that would mean a net reduction of 11,720 personnel in California, 2,333 of them civilians. He said he expects "the federal government to make every effort to ensure the continued employment of the civilian personnel affected. I expect to see the government live up to its full responsibility in this case."

Hearing of the planned closing of the training center at Fort Jackson, S.C., the South Carolina House quickly approved a resolution requesting Congress and the Army to affirm the fort "as an advantageous, effective and beneficial training center and a permanent military installation."

The Pentagon is aware of the political implications of closing bases and shifting thousands of military personnel. There are indications today's announcement may have been delayed until after the Senate's Panama Canal treaties vote last week to avoid losing support.

And prior to the public announcement, delegations from the armed services were on Capitol Hill giving senators and representatives advance word on the recommendations.

When word on base closings and cutbacks was obtained on Tuesday, 20 states were involved. They were California, Colorado, Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Wisconsin.

The bases included some of the oldest and best known in the country.

The Army list included the training center at Fort Dix,

N.J., for probable closure, and the historic Presidio in San Francisco, which would be virtually shut down.

The proposals included closing one of the two Marine Corps recruit training depots — consolidating Marine boot training at either Camp Pendleton, Calif., or Parris Island, S.C.

....THE NEWS IN BRIEF....

NATIONAL
OSSING, N.Y. (AP) — Joseph and Edna Reyes will be buried beside the son they loved more than life.

Despondent after the drowning of 17-year-old Jose, the parents committed suicide Sunday in the garage of their rented two-bedroom, basement apartment, hooking a hose to their car's exhaust pipe.

Until last June, when Jose died in a boating accident at Silver Lake, the Reyes were a joyful, loving family, friends say.

INTERNATIONAL

ROME (AP) — Four youths shot a leading Christian Democratic politician in the legs this morning, fled in a green car and were pursued by a police helicopter and patrol cars, authorities said.

The young gunmen fired 10 pistol shots at Gerolamo Meccoli, 54, as he left his home in a Rome suburb, witnesses said. Five bullets hit his legs, but doctors said his condition was not serious.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — South Africa has accepted the Western compromise plan for South-West Africa but guerrilla leader Sam Nujoma remains cool to it.

Prime Minister John Vorster's announcement Tuesday could clear the way for elections by universal suffrage in South-West Africa and independence by the end of the year for the pre-World War I German colony known to black Africans and the United Nations as Namibia.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A computer programmed to catch cheating is rejecting more than one-fourth of the first students applying for federal grants to cover college costs this year. The new computer check for inconsistencies or omissions has resulted in turning back more than 200,000 of the first 800,000 applicants for so-called basic educational opportunity grants, according to Leo Kornfeld, who is HEW's student aid director.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The complaints started even before the Pentagon announced its plans to close or cut back military bases around the country.

Governors and congressmen used words like "betrayed," "irreparable damage," and "appalled."

The comments came Tuesday — a day before the Pentagon was to announce what it wants to do with some military installations scattered around the country, in at least in 20 states.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter acted too hastily in rejecting President Leonid Brezhnev's offer for a joint U.S.-Soviet ban on the neutron bomb, a Soviet Embassy official says.

"If I had been the president, I would have thought about it a little longer," Vladilen M. Vasev, deputy ambassador with the Russian embassy, said at an embassy reception here late Tuesday.

MSU Faculty Members Attend Math Conference

Four Murray State University faculty members have returned to the campus after representing the university at national mathematics conferences in Arizona and California. Attending the fifth National Conference on Diagnostic and Prescriptive Mathematics at Scottsdale, Arizona, April 9-11 in the interest of the university's Integrated Science-Mathematics-Education Project were Dr. Christine Parker, Dr. Arvin Crafton and Dr. Willis Johnson.

Dr. Parker is an associate professor of mathematics, Dr. Crafton an associate professor in the Department Studies, and Dr. Johnson an assistant professor of mathematics.

Hosted by the Mathematics Learning Clinic at Arizona State University, the meeting was a preconference to the annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, held immediately afterwards in San Diego, Calif., and also attended by the three Murrayans along with Dr. Harvey Elder, an associate professor of mathematics. Dr. Elder also presented a paper, "Whatever Turns Them On," at the San Diego meeting.

Thyroid Cancer From X-ray Treatment For Acne

Q: Mr. A.G. writes to ask about precautions to take for cancer of the thyroid. He had X-ray treatments of the skin for acne years ago.

A: While the exact figure is not known, authorities believe that the incidence of thyroid cancer in persons who have had X-ray treatments to the face and neck for acne is significantly increased, perhaps making the risk as high as one in 10, according to a report in the Chicago Tribune. The appearance of the related thyroid cancer is delayed and may not show up for 25 years, or longer, after such X-ray treatments.

The relationship between X-ray therapy for acne and thyroid cancer was first discovered in 1973 at the University of Chicago in studies made by Edward Paloyan, M.D., and Ann Lawrence, M.D., now both are with Loyola University's Stritch School of Medicine.

According to estimates, more than a million Americans have had such X-ray skin treatments and are in need of closer observation by their physicians for checkups, including an examination of their thyroid glands at least once every two years.

The thyroid gland is located in the front of the neck below the voice box and can be felt through the skin to detect any suspicious nodules. If one or more is located, special tests are needed, possibly followed by surgery for a microscopic biopsy and appropriate excision. Other treatment is necessary if cancer is present. Early treatment offers the best chance for a cure.

X-ray treatments are no longer used to treat acne, except in the most severe cases. If used, the thyroid is carefully shielded to prevent its exposure to X-rays. Antibiotics and other local measures are much more effective for the vast majority of cases now than the X-ray treatments, which were formerly employed more routinely. Of course, it was not known that X-rays had a delayed damaging effect on the thyroid when they were used years ago.

Recently, the American Academy of Dermatology made an announcement that said, "The Academy recommends that patients who are concerned about the effects of previous radiation treatment seek examination by their physicians."

Persons who have had X-ray treatments for acne should mention this fact to their physicians when going in for a routine checkup so that special attention can be given to the thyroid gland.

An average bullfrog can jump nearly nine times its own length and travel at about 10 miles an hour, according to National Geographic.

National Endowment Awards Fellowships To Three At MSU

Three faculty members in the College of Humanistic Studies at Murray State University have been awarded fellowships by the National Endowment for the Humanities to attend summer seminars this year.

Recipients are: Dr. C. Ronald Cella, associate professor of English; Dr. Howard H. Keller, associate professor of Russian; and Dr. Maxine McCants, assistant professor of English.

They will be involved in two-month seminars intended to improve their knowledge of the subjects they teach by affording them opportunities to work with distinguished scholars in their fields of study.

Cella, a member of the faculty since 1968, will participate in a seminar entitled "American Art and the Classical Tradition" under the direction of Dr. Philipp P. Fehl at the University of Illinois.

Keller will attend a linguistics seminar on "Language Change: The Evidence from English" at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass. Keller joined the faculty at Murray State in 1970.

Ms. McCants will do her work under the direction of Dr. Mary Ann Caws at the Graduate Center of City University of New York in a seminar entitled "Poem and Metapoetics: Theory, Theme, and Text." She has been a member of the faculty at Murray State since 1965.

Cella will be involved in a seminar to examine ways in which American artists and writers attempted to adapt classical Greek and Roman art forms, as well as the aesthetic principles upon which they were based, to the promises and challenges of America.

A native of Central Kentucky, Cella earned his undergraduate degree at Transylvania College and the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Kentucky. Formerly assistant dean of the School of Arts and Sciences at Murray State, he is currently preparing a manuscript on 20th century American popular novelist Mary Johnston.

Keller will be studying historical linguistics from a variety of scientific disciplines. He expects his current research project involving word formation in a variety of Germanic languages to fit well into the goals of the seminar.

Since he joined the faculty at Murray State, Keller has published two books, "German Root Lexicon" and "German Word Family Dictionary" and recently completed a monograph on vocabulary learning. The New York City native is currently preparing a language review textbook for students of all languages entitled "A Topical Vocabulary Checklist."

Ms. McCants' proposed study is an analysis of the images and techniques of French symbolist and surrealist poetry as they are transformed in the poetry of contemporary American women. Most of the emphasis will be on 20th century French poetry.

She earned the B.A. degree at Belmont College, the M.A.T. degree at Vanderbilt, and the Ph.D. degree at the University of Southern Mississippi. A native of Athens, Ga., she has taught with the Kentucky Institute of European Studies in Bregenz, Austria, and served as chairman of the university curriculum committee and vice-president of the Faculty Senate at Murray State.

Program On Disabled Slated At University

A one-day program for health professionals entitled "The Disabled Patient: A Challenge for Rehabilitation Nursing" is scheduled at Murray State University on Thursday, April 27.

Designed to benefit registered nurses and licensed practical nurses, as well as other health personnel in the region, the workshop will run from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Mason Hall (Nursing Building). Continuing education units (CEUs) will be awarded to participants.

Edith Kowalsky, a rehabilitation nursing consultant for six health facilities in Eastern Kentucky, will conduct the workshop and be the principal speaker. A registered nurse with extensive experience in working with the disabled, she is a consultant for the Eastern Kentucky Comprehensive Rehabilitation Center. Her most recent published article is "A Lost Lifestyle," which appeared in the March edition of the American Journal of Nursing.

Program topics for the day include "Assessment of the Physically Disabled Client," "Traumatic Alteration in Body Image and the Grief Process," "Increasing Interpersonal Skills," "Sexuality and Persons with Physical Disabilities," and "Services for Vocational Rehabilitation."

Two films, "Changes" and "Like Other People," will be shown. "Like Other People" has received several awards for excellence. It depicts handicapped individuals as they actually are, illustrates many aspects of care, provides concepts applicable to various disabilities and coping problems, and gives insight into the sexual, emotional, and social needs of the handicapped.

Group discussions are also scheduled in the afternoon.

Anyone interested in attending may pre-register by sending the $10 registration fee, along with name, address, and social security number, to: Jean K. Culp, Coordinator, Continuing Education Program in Nursing, Department of Nursing, Mason Hall, Murray State University, Murray, Ky., 42071.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
 Be prudent, of course, but don't pinch pennies where spending is warranted. There are times when stretching the budget a bit pays off.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
 Artistry, featuring the unusual which has intrinsic value and an imaginative approach stand out as winners here. Others can benefit by your exceptional know-how.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21) ♊
 Your extraordinary intuition, plus your practicality, can help you to solve knotty problems more easily now; also help to further your advancement. Keep mind open to new ideas.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23) ♋
 Counting one's blessings makes every picture rosier, but DON'T count returns you have not and MAY NOT receive. Mixed influences: use care in all things.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
 Here is a top-flight day for you and your activities. Let your instincts, good judgment and good planning guide you in preparing for busy days ahead.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
 You may be faced with some complex situations, but your stability and willingness to persevere against odds will not only see you through, but increase your prestige.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
 Even your brightest ideas could meet with opposition, but if you're sure you're on the right track, go ahead and launch them. Others will come around to your way of thinking later.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) ♏
 A day for discretion. Be sure you do not offend friends or co-workers by thoughtless words. Work out disagreements, if any, with logic - and graciousness.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
 Stellar influences stimulate your ingenuity, adaptability and capacity for extra work and production on short notice. All will be rewarded.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑
 Teamwork will be important now, so make it a point to associate and work with those whose interests and aims are similar to your own.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒
 Avoid tendencies toward restlessness and unruliness. Note warning signals. Many errors and misguided moves can thus be prevented. Shun extremes.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓
 A different tack may be the trick you need now. See all sides of a project or discussion, and do not permit pleasure to supersede duties.

YOU BORN TODAY

are meditative, scholarly, intuitive and extremely sensitive. This sensitivity works best in the field of healing, which is why so many noted surgeons, physicians and nurses have been born under the Sign of Taurus. But it also gives you awareness in many other directions, such as invention, philosophy, writing and painting. You are also indomitable. In military and scientific affairs, for instance, you believe that the "impossible" can be done - and do it. The word "genius" best sums up the well-developed Taurean born on this date. Birthdate of: Gen. U.S. Grant, 18th Pres., U.S.A., Samuel Morse, inventor (Morse code).

Murder on Tape

Virginia telephoned the police to report that she was nervous about prowlers. While she was on the line a man burst into the room, exchanged angry words with her, then shot her dead.

In due course a neighbor was arrested for the crime. At the trial, police brought in a tape recording of Virginia's telephone call - including the conversation with the killer and the fatal shots.

The defense attorney objected to this "hearsay" evidence, but the court overruled his objection. And the tape helped send the defendant to prison for murder. Said the court:

"The rules of evidence are founded upon considerations of reliability. A mechanical record, if audible and not tampered with, is likely to be much more accurate than oral testimony."

As a general proposition, evidence on tape is indeed admissible in the courtroom. However, the recording must meet a minimum standard of quality. If it is too faulty, it won't get by.

In a robbery trial, the prosecution offered a tape recording of the defendant being interrogated by two detectives the day after the crime.

But the quality was so uneven that the court rejected the evidence. The court said there was too much risk that the jurors would resort to guesswork to fill in places they could not really understand.

In another case the language on the tape was clear enough, but the sound level was so low that only the juror closest to the machine could hear it.

From the defendant's point of view, this was grounds enough for the tape to be thrown out. But the court decided to accept it. The judge said he could see no reason why the jurors should not listen to the tape one at a time.

Why Chiropractic?

Many people when confronted with a health problem ask themselves to whom they should go for help. Some of them have spent much time and money looking for relief without results - sometimes without even being told what is wrong with them - or worse, told that it is "all in their head."

When they finally decided to go to a Chiropractor for help (usually through referral from a Chiropractic patient) they are somewhat skeptical. But they soon find out that, as a rule, the Chiropractic Physician wants nothing more than to find out the real cause of their problem, and will do everything possible to do so and let the patient know what is really wrong. Even in the few cases he can't help, the Chiropractor will try to explain the problem, and then refer the patient to the type of doctor who can help them.

And when he is able to help, he tries to go the extra step beyond just getting rid of the symptoms. He tries to get the patient's whole body system healthy and keep it that way so the problem doesn't come back again.

If you've had or have a health problem - Chiropractic may have the answer. Why Chiropractic? Why Not?

Workmen's compensation and most major insurance companies cover Chiropractic care.

IF YOU CAN OWN ONE SPINNING REEL, THE 300 SHOULD BE IT! The Mitchell 300 is the standard of excellence against which all others are measured. And with good reason. The 300 is the most solidly engineered reel made. It has a quick-change spool so you can change lines instantly, plus smooth "Constant cycle" gear train, tungsten carbide guide, one-spot lubrication, corrosion-resistant finish, new Teflon drag and oilite bushings. It all adds up to make this the one reel every angler should have. Left-hand (301) model.
